Held for Grand Jury on Payroll Charge

L. G. Friend who was arrested last Saturday charged with padding the payroll of the B. & O. railroad has been held for the grand jury in the sum of $1,000 bail, after a hearing before United States Commissioner J. P. Kirby.

At the hearing Friend testified that on account of wages the cook at the railroad camp near Monongah had threatened to leave, and that he had used the only means in his power to retain that very necessary member of the camp manage. It developed, however, that other irregularities in Foreman Friend's payroll have come to light all of which he will be called upon to explain to the grand jury.

Friend has a wife and four children and seemed to feel very keenly the unfortunate plight in which he finds himself.

REDS IN

"I should say they did," says Jailer Buckley. "Every morning and evening the rascals go through the jail and they are the most welcome visitors there. Those fellows read every line in the papers—well, I should say! Buckley's news giving propensities these days are thoroughly appreciated. Yesterday county officers who have been doing good work in rounding up the radicals in Marion county during the past week brought in twelve additional men. Seven were found at Grant Town and these are said to be four of the strongest anarchists, leaders of a large Russian clique, in this part of the country. The men came along quietly enough. All the arrests made have been conducted without a single firing from a gun. The Reds are said to be working against the government religiously and had progressed so far that plans were actually in effect toward an attempt to overthrow the government. I. W. W. members have been plotting all sorts of disturbance.

Today members of the Immigration Bureau from Pittsburgh will work fast in the preliminary examination of those in jail. A session was held this morning attended by government men who refuse to give their names in the grand jury room and every phase of the intricate situation was gone over carefully. Radicals who prove beyond doubt that they have been innocently jailed on suspicion will be allowed their freedom. It is understood, though so exactly have government agents and secret helpers been working that it is thought very few will escape deportation. A conference was held last night at the court house, the second of the kind, with government agents and Prosecuting Attorney Haggerty and Sheriff Glover present and the situation in Marion county was discussed minutely. The rounding up of radicals will occupy but a short time longer.
